

THE ADVENTURES OF LEILI THE GREAT
By NeufKar Robotics ~ Catapult Project

THE ADVENTURES OF LEILI THE GREAT

By NeufKar Robotics - The Catapult Project

Far, far, away in a forgotten land lived a great hero and an evil villain.

Leili The Great he was called, a hero of the people and a doer of courageous deeds. A hero's goal he had, to purge the great lands of all evil. But one stood in his way, his most evil nemesis, The Ferbinator! A most evil villain, destroying all in his way, with his army of terror. A villain so powerful that only one could stand in his way, Leili The Great!

Leili The Great travelled with his great army over mountains and across oceans

Ferbinator

destroying all evil. His great adventures are too long to tell, but a great warrior he was, respected by all. It was only toward the end of his fight against evil that he would meet The Ferbinator in combat, for the world was almost clean of evil, except for Ferbinator and his dark fortress of doom. The Ferbinator hid behind the unbreakable walls of his fortress like a coward and controlled his vast army of suicide soldiers in the comfort of safety.

Leili The Great knew all too well that The Ferbinator had to be stopped. His evil minions travelled across the free lands burning and killing everything in their path. Leili The Great led his vast army to the great walls of The Ferbinator's fortress and demanded the immediate surrender of The Ferbinator and all in his command. Alas, The may have been a coward, but he wasn't totally incompetent. He shut all his great fortress and secured himself inside a bunker in the middle of his was guarded by his most large, and fowl guards. The Ferbinator was prepared for a long siege and was confident that his high fortress walls could not be breached. He even sent his court jester, Clement, to raise his personal flag (which was red and featured five yellow stars on it) on the highest turret of his fortress stronghold.

Leili The Great was faced with a terrible dilemma, he had no siege equipment that could breach The Ferbinator's fortress walls, The Ferbinator had to be captured or killed because he still controlled his evil minions from inside the fortress walls! Leili The Great had only one option, he surrounded The Ferbinator's fortress with his army so nobody could leave. He then called for his two loyal scholars, Kane The Wise and Chris The Short.

Kane The Wise and Chris The Short were Leili The Great's last hope; he requested them to build a siege machine capable of breaching The Ferbinator's fortress walls. The two scholars began at once, putting their heads together and pondering up the most magnificent siege weapon ever thought up.

The siege machine the two scholars constructed was a great catapult! It featured a long firing arm, which had a hand-like-scoop on one side and a weight system on the other side for maximum throwing capabilities. The catapult also included a tread like system invented by Kane The Wise, which allowed the catapult to manoeuvre into any position. The catapult however was very slow, but it's slow speed struck fear in the heart of The Ferbinator as he watched it slowly rumble towards his fortress walls.

A flawless aiming system designed by Chris The Short allowed the catapult to be positioned accurately so that any part of The Ferbinator's fortress could be struck with the projectiles from the catapult.

As the catapult rumbled slowly up to The Ferbinator's fortress and backing up a smudge to position itself, Clement, The Ferbinator's jester could be seen boarding a horse cart at the back of the fortress in flight. The first of the catapults missile was directly aimed at The Ferbinator himself in his bunker, a successful shot disarmed him and left him begging for mercy. The job wasn't complete however, five more missiles were sent flying into the fortress taking down The Ferbinator's tyrant flag and hitting Clement, as he tried to escape in the horse cart.

The deed was done and The Ferbinator's fortress was taken. Leili The Great had succeeded in his goal to purge the lands of evil and he had Kane The Wise and Chris The Short to thank. He awarded both scholars with pure gold trophies and let them take up residents in The Ferbinator's fortress.

As for The Ferbinator and his jester, Clement, they were spared by Leili The Great and expelled from the peaceful lands. The Ferbinator was last seen running away crying, threatening to come back one day with something called a "nuclear weapon". He was deemed to be insane.

The End.

THE ADVENTURES OF LEILI THE GREAT

Pictures of the Project

More information available at our website: <http://kneuf.com/neufkar/>